Advancing EU–UK Cooperation: Charting a Path to the 2025 Summit and Beyond

28-29 March 2025

Participants and observers are reminded of the private and confidential basis on which Ditchley Foundation discussions are held. All those participating do so in their personal capacities, not as spokespeople for any country or institution. All proceedings take place under the 'Ditchley Rule', whereby all contributions are unattributable and interventions are made in strict confidence; this also applies to exchanges that take place outside the formal sessions. Those present are free to draw afterwards on the substance of what has been said, but not under any circumstances to reveal to any person not participating in the conference who it was that said it. The Rule will be scrupulously observed in any Note later produced on the conference by Ditchley. The verbal discussions will not be recorded.

A note about the programme:

A largely in-person/residential Ditchley conference, with Ditchley's bespoke 'Bridge' technology permitting the inclusion, via Zoom, of invited speakers.

What forms of cooperation are the most effective in this context? How can EU-NATO coordination be improved? Should the UK engage in EU-wide initiatives or is it more straightforward to be involved in those led by individual countries, capitalising on bilateral and minilateral agreements? What can be done to revive the European defence industrial base and strengthen cooperation? Should the UK seek integration with the EU's ecosystem for defence research and capability development and procurement (EDF, ASAP, EDIRPA)? If so, can the constraints on UK participation in the EU financing projects, such as the European Defence Industrial Programme be addressed through bespoke frameworks? Given the need for large-scale defence investment, what financing models are available?
Working Group B: Economic and energy security How should the EU and UK cooperate to ensure prosperity and resilience of their economies? Taking into account the constraints of the Trade and Cooperation Agreement, where are the potential areas for cooperation and coordination beyond it? How can we reduce friction on trade and mobility within legal, financial and political constraints for the EU and the UK? What can be done to strengthen shared energy security? How to facilitate the development of shared energy projects and linked energy grids? How can the EU and UK remain champions of the green transition while re-industrialising and aiming for lowering energy prices? With the aim of advancing European development of critical emerging technologies such as AI and quantum, how can we build resilient and secure supply chains for these emerging capabilities?
